DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-6,8-10,12,14,15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Moller in view of Coody et al and McClellan.
3. Moller discloses a treadmill device comprising a treadmill track which is pivotally mounted to a wall for enabling it to be moved between a stowed and a deployed position.

Coody et al discloses a treadmill and seat combination comprising a treadmill track 10 capable of being moved between a stowed position and a deployed position, a foldable seat 200-204 connected to the treadmill track for enabling a person to sit thereon when the treadmill track is stored in the stowed position.

In view of the Coody combinational teaching of a folding seat for a treadmill, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to employ a foldable seat underneath the Moller treadmill or additional exercise purposes or for providing a seating structure, while still retaining the desired compactibility taught by Moller and Coody et al.

Art Unit: 3764

Additionally, with respect to claim 5, the examiner contends that the Coody et al device can accommodate two small children side by side. Furthermore, changes in size are generally considered as design choices, and the examiner contends it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to enlarge the Coody cushion to accommodate larger sized users, and thereby accommodating two adults.

McClellan teaches the concept of using an exercise device in an aircraft. In view of this teaching, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to utilize the Moller , modified supra, treadmill in an airplane by attaching the wall attachment means 40 of Moller to an aircraft's wall such as a closet or galley wall.

As to claims 8 and 10, modern conventional treadmills utilize a motor, belt and control means, as exemplified by Coody et al, and would therefore have been obvious to one skilled in the art to apply in the Moller treadmill for better variability of treadmill speeds.

As to claim 9, note user support 50.

1. Claim 7 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Moller in view of Coody et al as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of Anderson.

Anderson teaches the use of safety restraints such as seat belt 29 for restraining a person on a seat. (A quick search in the exercise area will show dozens of similar type restraining means). In view of this teaching, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to modify the Moller , modified supra device by incorporating a seat belt for safety purposes.

Drawings

2. The drawings are objected to under 37 CFR 1.83(a). The drawings must show every feature of the invention specified in the claims. Therefore, the payment accepting means of claim 11; the means for limiting treadmill usage of claim 12; and the floor securing device of claim 16 must be shown or the feature(s) canceled from the claim(s). No new matter should be entered.

Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as "amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

4. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

5. Claims 11, 12 and 16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention.

6. Claim 16 recites a securing device for firmly attaching to a floor. This structure is not shown in the Drawings. It is unclear how and where the structure stated in the Specification is structurally employed in connecting the treadmill to the floor surface.

7. Claims 11 and 12 recite means for accepting payment; and recite means for limiting the time. These structures lack support in the Drawings.

8. Because these elements are not properly shown in the Drawings, it is unclear how and where the claimed structure is incorporated into the treadmill device.

Conclusion

3. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
